

Cello Faculty, Conservatory

Wei Yu was appointed principal cello of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in 2014 by then music director Leonard Slatkin. He made his subscription debut performing Dvořák's Cello Concerto in November 2015 and has since appeared as soloist almost every season. Before joining the DSO, Yu was a member of the New York Philharmonic for seven seasons.

Yu was a prizewinner at the Hudson Valley Philharmonic String, Holland American Music Society Cello, Music Teacher National Association (MTNA National Collegiate Strings), Canada's National